ANNUAL REPORT

of the

SUPERINTENDENT OF CLARENDON SCHCOOLS

To the School Directors and Citizens of Clarendon:

In this fourth annual report of the superintendent of schools I will endeavor not to repeat what was given in the previous reports, though much which was then given in those reports in regard to the policy of our school work then, would be timely now, for the general plan of our work must be much the same each year.

Though we have come short of reaching the attainment which we might hope, we are surely making steady advancement in the training for thought and working power. The schools have had a very successful year, and especially some of the more difficult schools under the direction of skilful teachers have made a very creditable record.

A good class of six was graduated from the Elementary course last June. The graduation exercises were held as usual in the town hall with a large attendance of parents and friends. The program given by the school was most excellent, and the original essays of the graduating class were good and well rendered. Much credit is due the schools for their success. It was pleasing to note the interest shown by the presence of the large number of towns people. These exercises are most pleasing and helpful and ought to be continued each year. We expect a good class to graduate next June. Parents should do all they can to encourage and urge their children to continue their work, complete, at least, the elementary course and graduate. For a child to have attained so much will always be a help and satisfaction to him through life.

We had very much hoped that our school year could be lengthened one or two weeks this year. It certainly ought to be. It is very hard for the children to do in thirty-two weeks the same work that is done by schools in other towns with thirty-six or thirty-eight weeks. Children of this town ought to have the same advantages as children in other towns about us. Why not? We urge that sufficient tax be raised this year so that the school year can be lengthened. The school officers have been very economical of the use of school funds, and if the present amount raised for schools is not sufficient so that the year can be lengthened, a larger tax ought to be raised. We do not wish to urge higher taxation, but the school money is carefully expended and the amount is still not enough to give our children the best advantages, a larger fund should be furnished. The town of Clarendon expends for its schools a smaller per cent of its grand list than most towns of the county, and than a larger number of the states. If the town would slightly increase its rate of tax to equal fifty per cent of its grand list, then it would draw back from the state nearly enough to equal the amount of increase of tax. This would give much better advantages to the schools and cost the town but little, if any, more. The superintendent recommends that the town raise a tax of fifty per cent for its school the coming year. Not often does the superintendent urge an increase of tax. but he feels it wise and necessary in this case.

Schools

Six schools have been maintained in town the past two terms, and seven in the spring term. Because there were not pupils enough for a legal school, the East St. school was closed for the present, at the beginning of the fall term, and the pupils transported to the Clarendon Flats school. These two schools united make one good school, and better work can be done than when the schools are too small for interest and competition.

Buildings

The Springs' school building has been slightly repaired. Though this building needs a new floor and the underpinning wall relaid before long; the two buildings on the West Hill are now in a good condition. It became necessary to cover the plastering with board ceiling in the East Clarendon school room, which was done during the last vacation. The school room near Clarendon depot was much improved and brightened last summer by a fresh coat of paint. Several minor repairs are needed on the North buildings. All of the school rooms have been furnished with drinking fountains complying with the regulations of the State Board of Health. Only the buildings in the north part of the town have any adequate system of ventilation. It would be well to furnish the other buildings with a modern heating and ventilating system (jacketed stoves), these are being used quite generally and are giving excellent satisfaction. This could be done one at a time at a moderate cost. Good ventilation in the school room is essential in preventing colds and various contagious diseases. New floors are needed in the East Clarendon and Clarendon school rooms, especially in the East building. This ought to be done in the summer vacation. A new teacher's desk should be furnished the Spafford school at once. Not all of the school houses have the flag and flag pole as required by law.

Books

New Geographies were adopted and supplied to the schools the past winter. This was necessary for the old ones which had been in use a long time were completely worn out. Aside from the geographies only a few books have been bought. By carrying books from one school to another we have been able to economize much. We are much in need of new good hygiene and physiology books. There is a general complaint that we cannot do good work in this subject because of the lack of good books. With these, the town will then be well supplied with books, and with care, the amount that will be needed in the few years to come ought to be less. It is necessary to supply worn out copies from time to time. We wish the parents would help us in our efforts to teach children the right use of books and public property. In many cases pupils are so careless in their use of books that new books are ruined in a short time. Such treatment of books is expensive, and bad training.

Attendance

The attendance in the schools has generally been quite good, but there have been a few truant cases and very poor attendance. Such cases have needed the enforcement of the law. The law is just, too. Every child has a right to an education, and if children are kept out, even to work, they are being robbed of their rights. If parents cannot see the value of education for their children, the law must step in and help the child. It is useless to tax people to support schools, and then not have the children attend. The per cent of attendance for the year reported was 90.

The law requires that all children from the ages of eight to sixteen shall attend school all the time it is in session unless excused in writing by the board of school directors after having attended school twenty-eight weeks in that year. Any child from seven to eight years of age and over sixteen who begins a term of school must attend regularly to its close.

We also wish to call the attention of all parents to the section of laws which says that no child under five years of age shall be admitted to a public school, and any child under seven cannot begin school except in the fall term unless by written permission of the superintendent of schools. On account of the additional classes which it will make we prefer not to give such permission. It is much better for the children to begin school in the fall term.

Teachers' Meetings.

A few teachers' meetings have been held during the year. The programs have been made of discussions by the superintendent and teachers of the best methods and means of instruction. The time has been very well and profitably spent. At times we have had outside speakers. The school directors and a few others have met with us. We plan to have a meeting in the spring that will be of special interest to the parents and friends of the schools. We extend an urgent invitation to the townspeople to be present at that meeting. Notice of date will be given later. It is well that the patrons of the schools and tax payers should be in close touch with the work the schools are doing. It is our aim to meet the wishes of the townspeople so far as it is best for the children.

We are also endeavoring to arrange so that we can meet the needs of manual training, practical and agricultural training, but we are impressed that the training which children especially need as well, is the moral training, the training for culture, for refinement, for honesty, and for respect for others.

There is a universal agitation throughout the educational world for the practical education, for vocational training; an education which shall fit the child to do something and get a living. Such training in our schools is essential, likely more necessary in the city than in the country schools, but a broader and deeper education is necessary. It is even more essential to train a child to live than to train to get a living. Vocational training trains the child to want to work to get that which satisfies the physical needs and desires. Many parents feel that this training is all that their children need, and that any training which does not lead to getting money and a living is unnecessary. The education which is most needed today is that which shall lift them above the foolish and harmful things about them, and shall make them useful to the state and ever ready to help their fellow beings; and that shall inspire them to higher and better thoughts and actions, and instil a desire for the noble life of service.

Our children should be taught to love work because it is a part of life, not because it is necessary to get money to live. The highest education fits the most cultured person to be ready and willing to do the most humble duties of life.

If we wish our children, as the better class of people, to stay in the home country town, we must have a closer relation between culture and manual labor. It is not unbecoming to society that the broadest educated man should labor in the shop or on the farm.

We ought to give more attention in our schools to the study of language, good literature, written composition, art, music, and general morals and culture. We are trying with some success to give this training, but there is quite a general feeling that these are unnecessary for life.

We are social beings and must dwell with and depend upon each other. Hence our children should learn to help others. The human soul longs for something more than the humdrum duties of life, and if it cannot be secured at home or on the farm, our children will go where they can get it. Herein is danger. So many seek to satisfy that longing in the base and harmful things. Then let us spare no means or opportunity to give our children that which shall give a desire for the higher and nobler things of life; that which makes the home life and work pleasant. Then life will seem worth living and we shall see a desire for better, more comfortable and happy homes, more honest business principles, truer citizenship, and a higher moral standard of living. This higher training is the best means of solving the great present day problems of the lack of honesty and equality in the business and industrial world, and the high cost of living.

We are grateful to the tax payers for their loyalty in furnishing the funds for the support of the schools. We wish to thank the people of the town for the help they have given the schools in every way.

The most help that can be given the schools is the co-operation that parents and friends give. Our teachers have been requested to have "Parent's Days," special days when the parents can visit the schools and learn the work that is being done. We urge you all to visit the schools on these or any other days. Your presence and suggestions will help much.

Our hard working teachers deserve commendation. It is easy to find failings which we all have, but when we realize the hard position of the teacher, we can feel that the faithful teacher is worthy of all the wages, help and sympathy she may get.

The superintendent wishes to take this opportunity to thank the children for their courtesy to him and for their interest in their work, and to thank the people for their help, and presence at our public exercises. He is also very grateful to the school directors for their help and support. They have given much work for the best interests of the schools.

We beseech the people of Clarendon not to lessen your interest in or your support of the schools, for the hope and progress of your town depends upon good schools.

Respectfully submitted

CARROLL H. DROWN,

Superintendent of schools.
